norton has an uninstall program that resets the counter on thier site so you can move your program to another computer is there something like this. my old computer I put this on a few weeks ago and nothing but problems and after hours of upgrade and studying hp and MS I find I can't upgrade this system to somehting that will work for me. so I built a new machine with much better graphics and sound so I can take full use of the program. how do I move the program? or can I? thanks
